

HIV testing

Testing for HIV is the only way to know for sure if you have HIV. Many people do not have any symptoms and can live for many years without knowing they have the virus.

Testing for HIV is quick, easy, painless, confidential and almost always free. If you test regularly for HIV, and after every time you put yourself at risk, you can help keep yourself and your sexual partners healthy. It is always better to know.

In this section, we go through everything you need to know about HIV testing.

Why get tested for HIV?

The reasons to test far outweigh the reasons not to. Find out about the benefits of testing for HIV.

When to get tested for HIV?

You can test for HIV at any time. If you've put yourself at risk, speak to your healthcare provider.

How do HIV tests work and what's involved?

It's normal to feel scared about testing but it's easier than you think. Find out what's involved.

What happens after an HIV test and getting the results?

You've tested for HIV, now what? We talk you through your results and what they mean.

HIV testing personal stories

It's normal to feel worried about going for an HIV test. Hear from others about their experiences.

Last full review: 22 September 2017

Next full review: 22 September 2020

Last updated: 13 February 2018