Talking HIV

'Talking HIV' is a collection of real-life conversations between people who have been affected by HIV. Each Talking HIV episode covers something different from testing for HIV, living with HIV, stigma and discrimination, self-stigma and a whole lot more.

Listening to other people in conversation - 'Talking HIV' - is a great way to find out more about HIV and how it affects people's day-to-day lives, relationships, families, careers, and outlook. It's also a way to reflect on your own experiences and can help you to understand that you're not alone.

Talking HIV: asking for the sex you want
Talking HIV: Sex and sexual health in our communities
Talking HIV: Sex without a condom

Talking HIV: Stigma
Talking HIV: The fear of going to a clinic
Talking HIV: Sharing your HIV status
If you'd like to share your own personal story, or have an idea for a Talking HIV episode then get in touch. You might have a conversation in mind that you've already had with a friend, a family member or someone that's supported you - or it may be that you and your healthcare professional would like to share a few moments that you've gone through together. Sharing your experiences helps others - it's good to talk!